

FIFTEEN YEARS FOR HOLLOWELL

Negro Murderer Last Tried at Special Term.

Six Convictions Have Been Secured,
Aggregating Thirty-Three Years.

NEWS FROM ALL THE COURTS.

The special criminal term of McCracken circuit court came to a close yesterday afternoon when the jury brought in a verdict in the murder case of Henry Hollowell, colored.

Hollowell was charged with killing George Travis, both colored. The two were in a room with several other negroes on the south side shortly before Christmas, 1905, and got into a fight. Hollowell pulled a gun and started to shoot. Travis got the contents of the revolver. Hollowell claimed he was shooting at another and that the killing of Travis was accidental. The jury gave him 15 years in the penitentiary.

During this term of court there were six convictions. They were: Henry Hollowell, colored, murder, 15 years; James Drane, colored, murder, four years; J. A. Donovan robbery, six years; Will Jackson robbery, six years; Anderson Vandross, colored, false swearing, one year; Ed Raymond, colored, false swearing, one year.

There was one other case on the docket set for yesterday but it was continued over until the regular September term. The term was called to try the H. H. Loving murder case and others were added, making a special docket. The Loving case was continued.

Sheriff John Ogilvie will leave the latter part of the week for Eddyville with the prisoners.

Police Court.

In the police court Lillie Starr and Georgia Stone were fined $10 and costs each, and Addie Naylor, all colored $1 and costs for a breach of the peace.

L. Washington, colored, who resisted Officers Aaron Hurley and Patrick Kirk when Nelson Ellis tried to kill Officer Hurley in a house on "Red Row" near the Illinois Central railroad two nights ago, was dismissed of the charge of carrying concealed weapons, and fined $15 and costs for resisting the officers.

The case against Nelson Ellis, colored, for maliciously shooting at Officer Hurley, was continued on account of Ellis not being able to attend court.

Other cases: Will Tucker, breach of the peace, $5 and costs; William Jefferson colored grand larceny, continued until Friday; J. D. Overstreet, violating Sabbath, continued; Sophia Wilson, colored, disorderly conduct, continued.

Joseph Touchard, his ally, received three years.

TOO STRICT?

NEVER, AS FAR AS CUDAHY COMPANY IS CONCERNED.

Head of Concern Says He Is in Favor of State and Government Inspection.

Louisville, Ky., June 27.—John Cudahy, the head of the packing interests bearing his name, arrived today from Chicago for an inspection of the Louisville Packing company's plant, a Cudahy property.

In the course of an interview he stated that he was in favor of federal and state laws for rigid inspection of the packing industry.

"They cannot make it too strict for me," said Mr. Cudahy. "I approve of cleanliness in handling every product in packing plant, and if inspection will make the boys cleaner or tidier in their work, I approve of it. I want everything about this plant as clean as a model kitchen, and if government inspection can make it better I will assist the inspectors. That's the instructions that go out from the management."
